2 PAs per week

The purpose of your role
The RCP is continually looking to further improve how we support and engage with our members. The RCP brings physicians together to collaborate, and the networks we do this through are an essential part of a successful future and the pursuit of our mission and vision.

Your will work focus on the development and leadership of the RCP network of college tutors (CTs) and associate college tutors (ACTs). As Linacre fellow, you will be responsible for driving engagement with college tutors and linking their work to that of other regional roles, most notably regional advisers, RCP trainee committee and RCP new consultants committee representatives. You will also shape the way RCP’s college and associate college tutors work, how they contribute to the wider workforce and how they can make a positive impact within their trusts in providing support and development to their physicianly trainees. You will be interested in the strategic development of these roles and networks, understand the RCP strategy, and be able to think strategically in terms of our work and engagement with these stakeholders.

In order to guide the RCP in the strategic development and delivery of a well-rounded RCP college tutor system, you will use your experience and connections within the physician community, feedback from the college tutors and support from the regional advisers and others in the regional teams to identify clear ways to support and direct college tutors. You will explore and identify new opportunities that RCP should act upon in order to better meet those needs. The Linacre fellow will also act as the voice of the RCP and associate college tutors, often undertaking the role of advocate and champion for their work within the wider medical workforce.

You will most frequently work with the membership team which includes all regional staff and the head of UK regions. You will also regularly liaise with other college officers, the deputy registrars and teams across Membership Support and Global Engagement (MSGE) and Education.
Linacre fellow
Role description and person specification

The purpose of your role

Specifically, you will:

> Develop the next stage of the direction and strategy of the RCP’s college and associate tutors, working closely with the registrar, deputy registrars, head of regions UK and the deputy director of MSGE.

> Support the implementation of this strategy, supporting RCP tutors and staff across the UK, and aligning priorities.

> Be a central point of contact for college and associate tutors nationally, responding to any specific enquiries, supported by MSGE staff.

> Lead all college and associate tutors, driving their engagement and motivating them in their roles.

> Stay up to date with current practice, education and training, and the needs of trainees.

> Chair any CT associated meetings, including the national meeting, for which the Linacre fellow will set the agenda.

> Develop a strong working relationship with RCP regions, working with regional advisers and regional staff to establish strong regional links with tutors, ACTs as well as RSAs and other regional representatives.

> Develop a strong understanding of CTs/ACTs and their role currently, not just within the RCP but across the medical profession.

> Produce regular copy in collaboration with membership engagement, including bulletins, articles and newsletters.

> Represent the interests of college tutors within the RCP.

> Liaise, advise and work in partnership with the registrar and president of the RCP, other officers and staff across the organisation in achievement of the RCP strategic goals.

> Need to be able to manage competing priorities and respond positively to changing demands. The role will offer significant opportunity for personal and professional development.

How we’ll measure your success

> Visible and active network of college tutors and associate college tutors in each region across England, Wales and Northern Ireland.

> High attendance of CTs and ACTs at RCP regional and national meetings.

> Support given to CTs and ACTs seen by them as beneficial for them to carry out their roles.

> An embedded structure of CTs and ACTs in regional offices/networks.

> Regular, clear communications to CTs and ACTs.

> Good relationships developed and maintained with key stakeholders in training (including JRCPTB, HEE, deans, head of schools and others.)

Our values

We are committed to taking care, learning, and being collaborative. These values drive the way we behave, how we interact with each other, and how we work together to achieve our vision and improve patient care.

We value taking care

This means we behave respectfully towards people, whatever their role, position, gender or background. It means we act as representatives of the RCP and take decisions in the interests of the organisation as a whole.

We value learning

This means we continuously improve through active learning and honest reflection, so that we grow personally and as an organisation, while striving for excellence. We support learning and development opportunities.

We value being collaborative

This means we work together towards the RCP’s vision in a collaborative and professional way, understanding that individuals bring different strengths and approaches to our work. We value diversity and each other’s contributions.

The Royal College of Physicians welcomes and actively seeks to recruit people to its activities regardless of race, religion, ethnic origin, disability, age, gender and sexual orientation. The RCP aims to reflect the diversity of its members in all its committee, senior roles and staff in general.
