Publications by the Royal College of Physicians

The publications produced by the Royal College of Physicians (RCP) reflect the broad range of work we do: we produce evidence-based reports that influence policymakers and healthcare professionals.

Reports such as Every breath we take, examining the impact of air pollution, and Underfunded, underdoctored, overstretched detail the challenges facing the modern NHS and continue to influence policymakers in changing the direction of the wider healthcare debate.

Our Publications team assists all departments of the organisation, editing, formatting and designing hundreds of products each year on behalf of the RCP. They also help to produce materials for museum exhibitions, conferences and events, as well as books, RCP merchandise and our website.

Our reports detail the challenges facing the modern NHS and influence policymakers in changing the direction of the wider healthcare debate.

Acute care toolkits

The acute care toolkits are a series of resources to help physicians improve the delivery of acute care. The toolkits look at current problems and suggest a range of recommendations for improving quality. There are currently 13 toolkits in our series, and recent topics include:

- > end-of-life care in the acute care setting
- > acute care for adolescents and young adults
- > acute kidney injury and intravenous fluid therapy
- > using data to improve care.

Guidelines and policies

We also produce a wide range of evidence-based guidelines and policy reports on a variety of topics.

Medical journals

The RCP produces two peer-reviewed medical journals and a regular membership magazine.

Clinical Medicine

This journal is aimed at practising physicians in the UK and overseas, and covers many topics including current issues in medicine, law and ethics.

It contains a dedicated continuing medical education (CME) section, which presents the latest advances in a particular specialty. There are also self-assessment questions at the end of each topic, enabling physicians to acquire continuing professional development (CPD) points.

Future Hospital Journal

The RCP's Future Hospital Journal (FHJ) is a triannual publication that provides a forum for debate around the delivery of secondary healthcare. It focuses on improving patient care and management through process and system change.

The FHJ covers issues such as workforce planning, quality regulation and infrastructure, and is an informative read for anyone who is interested in healthcare systems and management.

Commentary magazine

Commentary is the RCP's membership magazine, delivering authoritative insight and opinion across a diverse range of subjects – including political developments in the health sector and medical history.

The 32-page magazine is published bimonthly and mailed worldwide to fellows and members alongside Clinical Medicine and Future Hospital Journal.
